HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 8TH 1909.

HOWEVER much respect is justly felt for Sir ROBERT HART's knowledge of the Chinese and of their character, some doubts may perhaps be entertained as to the view which he propounded some time back at Lisburn in an address to the Urban Council there that the millennium would come from the Celestial Empire. "Possibly," he said, "one hundred, two hundred or three hundred years hence, those 400 millions of people would be as strong in arms, individually and nationally, as, for instance, a great Continental Power like Germany is at the present moment, and then what would happen? China would turn round to the rest of the world and say: 'Gentlemen there must be no more fighting.' They would throw in the force of their arms with the country that was attacked and against the country that made war, and he believes that, in that way, the millennium would come. Of course 'the millennium' was received with due cheering by the audience, who probably believed about as much in the cheering prospect of what would be the state of the world three hundred years hence as we may fairly consider did the utterer of this very pretty rhapsody.

It is assumed that the nation which makes war is always in the wrong; but surely this is a very large assumption. A country may do a great deal of wrong to another short of waging war upon it; and leave to it no resource but to resort to arms to maintain its rights—so that the grand forbidding of fighting which the China of three hundred years hence is supposed to impose upon the ignorant outer barbarians by means of its own large army drawn from its 400 millions of inhabitants, might in a given case be the upholding of the wrong and not of the right—which would scarcely be in accordance with the notions generally entertained of the millennium. It is perhaps hardly fair to take Sir ROBERT HART quite seriously on this point—and a little allowance must be made for humour, even in a high ex-official, who is generally pretty serious in his utterances. We are all entitled to our ideas of what will take place in the world three hundred years hence, and stranger things have happened in the course of centuries than the rise of the millennium in China; but still it is probably only a limited number of people who expect that happy event to come from that particular quarter. Sir ROBERT admitted that his assertion was "a curious statement to make," but he added that he knew something of the Chinese and he knew their reasonable character and he, therefore, knew they would act in a reasonable way. With this last view most people who are acquainted with the Chinese will fully agree. The Chinese are always open to reason and usually come to a common sense view of matters which have to be dealt with practically. For this reason we may very safely conclude that they are not very likely, even out of their 400,000,000 population, to think of supporting an army for the purpose of preserving the peace of the world in general. "C'est une erreur à nul seconde de vouloir se mêler à corriger le monde," would probably be the light in which Chinese reasonableness would look upon any such Quixotic scheme. It is far from the Chinese idea to interfere with other peoples' business, and there will have to be a great change in their ways of looking upon things before the millennium three hundred years hence, if they are to constitute themselves the arbiters of the world's doings.

The impression which Sir ROBERT HART was desirous of conveying is of course merely the old idea that China might some day—between this and the millennium—become a formidable military power—and no doubt the somewhat original way in which he put the matter forward, was calculated, even after being very largely discounted, to have this effect. This has been a favourite theme with Sir ROBERT HART, who, however, seems to attach more importance to mere numbers, than perhaps they deserve. That China is improving very noticeably in her military organisation is beyond question; and it is not necessary, at the present time, to point out the serious risks that any nation would incur in going to war with her. This is very well known and it is not likely that any nation would, after the lesson that was conveyed by the Russo-Japanese war, rush into difficulties in this direction in a hurry. It is not, however, necessary in order to confirm this point, to suggest that China is ever likely to become a dominant military power, able to dictate to the whole world. As Sir ROBERT says, the Chinese "are a strangely reasonable people" and they would never wish to carry military enterprise to any such lengths. If they obtain an effective army for maintaining order in the country and protecting it from foreign invasion, they will be quite content. They have done something in this direction and as time goes on will probably do more; but it is not likely that China will attempt to dictate to other nations. They will be quite content under any circumstances if they have sufficient military forces to hold their own.

Brigadier General Albert L. Mills, Brigadier General John J. Pyrahing and Brigadier General Charles H. Hodgal, of the Philippine Division of the U. S. Manila papers to hand by Saturday's mail contain contradictions of the alarming news of the destruction of Barcelona by an earthquake. The original dispatch which reached Manila from Washington, is stated to have come from London. The sender of the message to Manila when requested to cable what papers published the message, replied that the cable had "world-wide" publicity.

Returns of the average amount of bank notes in circulation and of specie in reserve in Hongkong, during the month ended 31st January, 1909, as certified by the managers of the respective banks, are as under—

BANKS.	AVERAGE SPECIE IN AMOUNT RESERVE.
Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, $3,556,942	$2,700,000
Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, 19,052,242	15,000,000

A Peking contemporary states that the Wai-wu-pu recently received a message from the Viceroy of Kwangtung stating that the Portuguese in Macao are at present very active and appearances indicate that they are attempting to bring the whole district, and the Chinese residents therein, under their control. In addition to this the Portuguese have now occupied both banks of Wai Chiu and have forced the boatmen to submit to their control. They are distributing the Portuguese National Bank notes throughout the district insisting on their being accepted as legal tender in and around Ma To Ho. They threaten to punish any of the natives who refuse to accept them. They are constantly breaking treaty stipulations and refused to listen to remonstrances from the officials who were sent to negotiate upon this matter. The Viceroy asks the Wai-wu-pu to open proper negotiations with the Portuguese Minister in Peking and have these affairs settled. The Wai-wu-pu has already notified the Portuguese Minister of these facts.

THE IRONS.

Large attendances patronised the two performances given by Harmanston's Circus at Causeway Bay on Saturday, and judging by the hearty applause, those present were well satisfied with what they saw. The Irons will be with us for six more nights only, so it behooves those who have not yet seen it to lose no time in doing so. To-morrow night there will be another riding contest, and as this is always a popular item there will no doubt be a large attendance to witness the feats of some of our local horsemen. On Wednesday afternoon a matinee will be held.

A HONGKONG DIVORCE SUIT.

BAILEY V. BAILEY AND HODGSON.

Mr. Justice Brougham Deane in the Divorce Division of the High Court of Justice, London, last month, had before him the petition of William Seybourne Bailey, an engineer and shipbuilder, for the dissolution of his marriage with Miriam Laura Bailey, nee Bannister, by reason of her adultery with William Haynes Hodgson, "now or formerly" a lieutenant in the Mooltan Regiment. Mr. Raydon, counsel for the learned President on July 4th, 1908, had given leave to prove this case by affidavit, and accordingly he proposed to read affidavits sworn by the petitioner and by Mr. Frank Harold Taylor of H.B.M.'s Post Office, Hoihow, China. From these affidavits it appeared that the petitioner first met the respondent through a trivial accident in an omnibus in London on March 15, 1906. The acquaintance ripened into friendship, and he became engaged to be married to her on August 5 following. On August 9 he left for Hongkong, and the respondent followed him there at his expense, and they were married at the Cathedral Church of St. John, Victoria, Hongkong, on January 1, 1907. From the first the respondent treated the petitioner with great coldness, and showed a marked preference for the society of various officers of the garrison, and this resulted in differences between the petitioner and his wife. In spite of her conduct, which rendered him unhappy, it did not occur to the petitioner that his wife was guilty, and he lost no opportunity of trying to please her. On May 10, 1907, he discovered that she had written to the co-respondent asking him to "come and say good-night at 9 o'clock," but even then he only believed that his wife was indiscreet. On May 11, however, he obtained possession of two letters written by the respondent to the co-respondent; and on May 12, having led the respondent to suppose that he would be away from Hongkong, in company with a European witness he watched his house and saw the co-respondent kiss the respondent as he left her, but even then he was not satisfied that there was sufficient evidence upon which to found a charge of adultery. He remained from home for some days, and on the night of May 19 he watched the house again in company with Frank Harold Taylor, and eventually discovered the respondent and co-respondent in flagrant delicto, whereupon he thrashed the latter until stopped by some European policeman.

An affidavit from Mr. Frank Harold Taylor and other evidence having been read in corroboration.

Mr. Justice Brougham Deane pronounced a decree nisi with costs.

LONDON, February 6th.

The Porte is adopting a stiff attitude towards Austria's proposed modifications of the suggested agreement between the two Powers and has refused to assent to them.

The Porte has met the Russian proposals outlined in the telegram of the 2nd inst., with a complicated counter scheme.

THE CASE OF CHAN PIK.

PEKING, February 7th.

An Imperial Edict has been issued respecting the charges of corruption brought against Chan Pik, the President of the Posts and Communications.

The report of the Grand Councillors appointed to investigate the charges brought against the Minister refers to certain secret negotiations for foreign loans conducted by the Minister, but states that there is no direct evidence of his having accepted bribes. The Grand Councillors, however, found that the expenses allowed to subordinates in this connection were excessive and the report recommends that the case of the Minister should be dealt with by the Board of Punishments, and that two Secretaries of the Board of Posts and Communications should be immediately dismissed.

The Edict approves these recommendations.

On the issue of this Edict the President of the Ministry of the Interior ordered that a posse of police should watch the residence of the disgraced Minister, but before the order was issued Chan Pik had sent his family by railway to his native place.

THE IMPERIAL GRAVES.

PEKING, February 7th.

Owing to the enormous cost of preparing the graves for the late Emperor and Empress-Dowager, the Viceroy of Chihli has recommended to the Throne that a special tax should be levied.

The loan will be issued at 94 and the rate of interest has been fixed at 5 per cent. per annum.

THE MANILA CARNIVAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Tuesday, 2nd February.

It is no straining of language to say that King Carnival holds sway here. With the enthusiasm which Americans impart into most things that they take in hand the citizens, or properly speaking the Carnival Association, have made elaborate preparations for a week of high revelry in which the most imposing pageants, and the most interesting of industrial and commercial exhibits, will be on view, and in which pleasure and amusement, unlimited and diversified, will enthrall all who come under its influence.

It is difficult to conceive all that is summed up in the word Carnival. Camp Wallace, the scene of military operations in the early days of the occupation, is transformed. The Lunetta, always a place of beauty, while not losing its distinguishing characteristics, has become a place of joy. A vast enclosure separates the carnival city from the old world Manila and from the new commercial city. Here everything is of the gayest. The buildings are brilliant with colour. The people are full of animation. Fun, frolic and good humour prevail throughout.

To describe the arrangements for the Carnival would entail a considerable demand on your space. Perhaps it will suffice if I tell you that it is a fairland. Picturesque and lovely as it appears in the brilliant sunshine its beauty becomes more apparent perhaps when the shades of even have fallen and the illuminations show new aspects and new view points.

At four o'clock the gates were opened and gave admission to the large crowd which eagerly sought admission. The goddess of Liberty, holding aloft her light over the city, caught the view of visitors immediately the gates were opened, and the splendour and glory of the place was not lost upon the gay, light-hearted people who came to see, to admire, and to be enchanted. That they were delighted was apparent to the most casual observer.

The Hippodrome is the star attraction of this evening. The monster amphitheatre with a vast arena and a seating capacity for twelve thousand will be open at nine o'clock with a grand entry of all the participants in the sports. Hongkong meets the 10th Cavalry in the polo sports this afternoon and to-morrow the cricket match between Manila and Hongkong will commence. Tennis will commence on Thursday and will be continued for several days. Undoubtedly one of the most popular attractions is the playing of the Band of the 13th Rajputs. It is described in the programme "as the 'Famous Band of 13th Rajputs, British Army in India, composed of the following native races: Afiridis, Sikhs, Pathans, Afghans, Panjabis, Ghorekhas.'"

As you all know, the Carnival is intended to "boost" Manila. That is the American way of describing the business. Certainly the Carnival Association have taken the proper steps of securing publicity to their undertaking and to making the city better known. They have sent a cordial invitation to all the Hongkong newspapers, the "public sentiment makers," and in response to that we have here a party of Hongkong pressmen. They have been heartily welcomed on behalf of the city and everything possible to afford them the best impressions of the place has been done. With the sporting representatives of the colony, they were met on the steamer by the Reception Committee and introduced to the leading gentlemen of the city. Now they are seeing the city and the people at their best.

3rd February.

Amid such scenes of animation and amid such experiences of good fellowship and hospitality one's impressions of Manila and its inhabitants must be exceedingly favourable, and the more one sees of the "Pearl of the Orient" and the folks who have their habitation therein the higher they rise in one's estimation. To the visitor who goes there for the first time Manila is a revelation. It is a real city. It has all the attractions, all the animation, and most of the advantages which we associate with the name. To walk along its old-world streets is a pleasure which cannot be enjoyed in any other great centre in the East. Shanghai is a busy cosmopolitan place with many attractions; Hongkong, though perhaps not so commercial, has a natural beauty which gives a certain pre-eminence, but Manila represents in some degree a combination of both. It is of course true that neither in the volume of its business, nor in the amount of its shipping can it equal either Shanghai or Hongkong, but it is growing. It is developing, if not with the rapidity of the mushroom cities of the United States, at any rate under the same progressive forces and influences which distinguish the cities of the new world from those of the old. By and by Manila, will be different from what we see to-day. Like the phoenix rising from the ashes of its dead self, a new city, a greater port, will be created which will rival in importance the trading and shipping centres of the East. At the same time it would be a pity to think that the many beautiful and historical features which characterise the city should disappear before the ruthless hand of commercial utility. Rather let the Manila of the future be a pleasing combination of ancient and modern, a happy compingling of East and West, each supplementing the other and combining to create a city of which its inhabitants will always be proud to say: "I am a citizen of no mean city."

So much for the city. Now let me try to tell you something of the people. In perhaps the same way as Manila suffers from misrepresentation, or at any rate misunderstanding, so do the people. The Americans are too often regarded as arrogant boasters, men of little culture or refinement; but association with them disproves that. They show a hospitality which puts us to shame. They do not seem to be able to do enough for the stranger within their gates. Everywhere one
